A message from a dad...

Howdy folks...

I come with a story to share today, and ask that if you have a moment you say a quick prayer for my son.
A few years ago we found out that my son had cancer. He was so young and was always so happy. The therapy we had to go through made him pretty much a paraplegic. From that day until December of 2005 Tim had pretty much just watched TV and barely interacted with anyone except his mother and I. On the 23rd of December 2005 his mother, my wife of 9 years, died at the hands of a drunk driver leaving just he and I to make it through. Tim had a deeper withdrawn phase at the loss of his mother which seemed to separate him from the world. In March of 2006 I got him a computer game AFTER reading about Glider. I could set him up and run his character and Tim would run around hacking and slaying with the best of them. Tim having very limited motor skills was fine in the AH as he could take his time. That monster however wouldn't have the patience of the Auction Masters. Glider fixed that.

I saw a new light in Tim's eyes! He would run in and attack mobs by hitting the "Kill One" button. He was able to be whole again. This made a complete difference in his disposition right from the very first day. The day he turned 60 on his 4th character, and when BC came out, getting them all 4 to 70 where as exciting as any birthday he had. He ran BGs using Glider, something he could not have done on his own but made possible because of the Glider crew.

Last month, Tim died. He suffers no more, and I have promised to keep his heroes running in the BGs. I walk past the PC and there he is, charging into battle. I can still see him sitting there and smiling from ear to ear looking up at me. If Tim gets banned, I'll run up a new one and he will run on. Someday I may shut it down and let it go. But for now, I just miss him…

So, why post this?
This is a huge Thank you to all of those that contributed so many glides to these forums. To those that made custom classes, and add on applications like Spartacus. To those who put together profile packs and posted them. To all of you who contributed in so many ways… Thank you for making these last few years of Tim's life one of a hero in the World of Warcraft.

Glider for the handicapped

Hi I used to be a glider. I have only one arm so it helped me alot. With out this program I could not play the game Now I am forced to quit because Blizzard has taken my handicapped entrance away.

Subject: its bugging out there is a problem here , not sure whos end its on everything was working great then tonight there has been problems with glider just shutting down, like ther is a bug or something , i have spyware and trend so i am very protected, did blizzard do something to stop this glider? i am not even going automatic hand gliding, and the last time just had it on and it stopped working...

i have to say i love this ..and i find it a learning tool...cuz i am such a dork, and just didnt lvl as fast or *get the whole set up thing with the buttons, and with your progrtam i could see how you guys set up your tactics and wow its so awesome i could finally see how to fully use all the buttons to get max hits. My daughter is 15 and had a terrible accident and has left her in a handicap way, and she wanted to play so bad, and now that i have this glider she is able to fully experience wow with out to much pain in her hands. She fell 50 feet 4 years ago while in a ski lesson, long story short she has nerve damage in her back which effects her hands and feet, so everything is limited to what she can do, so online gaming is a great way for her to experience fun, but she gets numb, well..now with your glider she can keep up with everyone !! its like handicap approved...however i dont tell her that..she dont like thinking she has limitations. Anyway plz fix this plzzz...btw i have a new pc its only a few weeks old , so i dont think its on my end, can u let me know either way?
